How to make Tamina:

First, take some semolina and brown it in a frying pan. Next, melt the butter and the honey in the pan. After that, add the semolina and stir. Finally, pour the mixture into a plate and decorate with cinnamon.

Dear Omar,

I am very happy to write you this letter to tell you about the mealtimes in our country.

Unlike the British, the Algerian people have only three meals a day.

First, they have breakfast when they get up usually at 7 O'clock.it made of milk, coffee, biscuits, jam and butter.

Next, they have lunch at around midday. This is the biggest meal of the day. It's made of rice or pasta, meat or chicken, vegetables, a drink and a dessert.

Finally, they have dinner at around 8 O'clock. It's often a light meal.it made of soup, a salad and yoghurt.

Yours sincerely

Dear James,

I heard that you opened a restaurant in London. Congratulation!!

And you'll need some Algerian recipes. To help you, I'll give you of my best dishes, it is "Shorba".

First, in a sauce pan, put cooking oil, meat or chicken, chickpeas and onions and let them fry for 20mn.

Then, add the courgettes and potatoes into small pieces, add mint and coriander.

Next, sprinkle some salt, black pepper, red pepper, cinnamon and 1L of water when the meat is cooked, add tomatoes and cover.

After that, let it boil during 30mn and add small grains of wheat called "Frik".Let it cook until the soup reaches the wanted constancy.

Finally, pour in a boil and serve it hot with a little lemon juice and sprinkle some coriander and mint on it. Serve it with "Bourek".

It is mainly eaten in "Ramadan", and weddings.

In the primary school, I could Arabic and French. I could eat at the canteen. I could go on an excursion. I was able to pass the final primary school exam.

Now, at middle school, I can study and speak English.I can practice sport once a week. I am able to take part in brevet exam next June.

Next years, in the secondary school, I'll be able to follow the scientific stream. If I work hard, I'll be able to pass the baccalaureate exam.

School report

Dear friend,

I've received your letter and I'm greatly happy to help you by giving some pieces of advice about how to prepare for an exam:

- You should organize your time.

- You can establish a calendar.

- You should revise in groups to help each other, to be more confident and to reduce stress.

- You mustn't revise many subjects at the same time.

- You should revise your lessons and practice more tasks every day.

- You can practice sport to relax.

- You must eat well and sleep early to wake up active and to be able to concentrate on your work.

You may will succeed in your exam, if you follow these pieces of advice.

I wish you a good luck

Yours sincerely

Dear Miss Wanton,

I've read your advert on the internet yesterday and I would like to apply for the job of a receptionist in your bank.

My name is Osmane Lotfi.I am 28 years old. I live in Oxford. At the moment, I am a tourist guide, but last years, I was a hotel receptionist.

I like working with people very much. I can speak two foreign languages "French" and "Spanish".

I can also use a computer.

I look forward to receive a positive reply.

Yours sincerely

The Mayor of the city

25, Ben Badis streets, Alger

14th, January 2017

Dear Sir,

I'm writing to complain about the living conditions in our city. Some of them are due to the streets which are full of rubbish.

People can hardly breathe because of the bad smell of the rubbish wish causes acid rain. As result, many health problems as allergies.

I would be grate full if you can add more dust bins in our city, to increase the number of garbage men to clean the city, to create more green spaces and why not to establish a calendar to the throw rubbish and if you don't, you'll pay taxes.

I look forward to your response.

Yours faithfully

Osmane Lotfi

The Elephant

One of the mammals that are in danger of extinction in the world, today is the “elephant”.

It is a huge mammal; it has big ears and long trunk ivory tusks. It feed on herbs and leaves. It lives in the jungles of Africa and Asia.

The main cause of its extinction is the hunters who killed them for their ivory.

To protect this animal, we must put them in protecting parks, to set strict laws to forbid its hunting and to cure them they are wounded.

If we do all these, the elephant will be saved.

Dear friend,

I am very happy to receive your letter and to help you in your project with schools in other countries.

So, in Algeria and with the new reforms, boys and girls spend 5 years in the primary school.

After that, they take an exam which allows them to join the middle school. They spend 4 years there. At the end of the 4th years, they have the Brevet exam.

If they get the average, they'll be able to join the secondary school. Of course, they are two streams (literary stream and the scientific stream). If pupils have a good result, their choice will be taken in consideration. After spending three years in the high school, they take the baccalaureate exam. If they get the average, they'll register at the university.

I hope this information will help you to get a good mark in your project.

Yours,

Osmane Lotfi

"Algiers"

Algiers is the capital city of Algeria. It is located in the north of Algeria; it's bordered by the Mediterranean Sea in the north, Boumerdes in the east, Tipaza in the west and Blida in the south.

It is the most important city in Algeria because we can find all ministries and universities there. It is famous for its ancient building "el Kasbah".

It's beautiful mosques as "katchawa". There are many places of interest, you can visit as "Bardo Museum", "Maquam El Chahid" monument, "El Hamma" park and "Bouchawi" forest.

Of Algiers people are very kind and friendly but nervous. "Rechta" and "kouskous" are the most famous traditional dishes."Karakou","badroun" and "Hayek el wrama" are its famous traditional clothes.

I'm sure you wont regret if you come and visit my wonderful hometown.
